Science Department

One of the newest and biggest occurrences in the Science Department this year was the gaining of a large telescope. It is pictured with Mr. Tinnell on the opposite page, bottom left.

In Environmental Lab, a new course for South, students work in lab experience in and out of school. This course is an extension of the previous environmental classes offered. It is a second year course.

Man-made World had to be dropped from the curriculum this year. This class focused on engineering; it was a science class for those who weren't scientifically inclined. The reason for its deletion was the reduction in the number of teachers and more interest shown in other science classes. Man-made World may be resumed next year.

Saxon Football

Although this football season was a disaster with the Saxons yielding a 0-8-1 record, it can be said that the Saxon spirit never faltered. Head Coach Val Barnes called this year a building year with twenty juniors and two sophomores earning valuable experience for next year's team. The Saxons will lose twelve seniors to graduation.

Chuck Chamberlain led the team in rushing with a 3.4 yard average per carry while Joel Wade was a close second with a 3.3 yard average. Chamberlain also took passing honors at 35 yards a pass. Joel Wade, doubling as a receiver, ended up with a 16.4 yard average per reception. Coach Barnes listed Chris Schulte as most inspirational, Chuck Chamberlain as back of the year, Dave Frank as lineman of the year and Joe Kelly as most improved.

JV Football Team Looks to Juniors

It may be said that since both J.V. coaches are math teachers, they would be able to calculate the win factor to overpower the loss factor in their football season. But this game plan didn't work out to the fullest extent. The J.V. football players were led by coach Greg Marks and Pat Romero to spirited wins over Crescent Valley (7-0), and Sprague (22-19) later in the season. They also tallied a win by West Albany forfeit.

Coach Marks listed his top receiver as Kevin Potter and leading ground gainer as Casey Davis. Both coaches look forward to being able to have juniors on the J.V. team next year while the Varsity team looks like it is able to draw from the Senior class most of its team. Coach Marks stated that he expected a few of his players to play Varsity next year and is sad to lose them although he expects a good season.

Jane Miller took first place in every event in which she swam. Places in district included: first places Jane Miller, 100 individual medley and 400 freestyle, and the 200 medley relay with Linda Pingel, Connie Toland, and Lucy Embick. Aquamen Have Disappointing Year

Boy's swim team had a disappointing year with a two win and five loss record in dual competition and tenth out of thirteenth in district. In the highlight of the district meet for South, Chuck Cooper was the district champion in diving. Brad Johanson finished fifth in the breaststroke and Brock Miller was sixth in the backstroke. Coach Grayum promises the swim team will be more competitive next year losing only one senior, with four juniors and eight sophomores returning. Varsity Basketball

The '72-'73 Varsity Basketball team finished with a record of 9-13. Although the record doesn't seem too good the team had a good season considering it did not have anybody taller than 6'3". The team was led by Senior Captain Jon Hills with 389 points and a 21.6 points game average. Chuck Chamberlain with 200 points and a 11.1 points per game average. Next year's team should finish close to the top because it will have 8 returning varsity men.

Senior Mark Fineran was named most inspirational and Pat Patterson outstanding wrestler at the awards presentation. South Spikers Look to Future

South Salem's new track Coach Gregg Marks is not used to losing, but the Saxons showed him the way. Through the 17 years South has existed the trackmen haven't lost as many dual meets as they lost this year. Even through all this Coach Marks is proud as he claimed 130 life time bests this year.

The coaching staff has set a limit of five years before South takes state.

This season the number of sophomores is twice that of the juniors and three times that of the seniors. The coaches have said this is the best bunch of sophomores they have worked with.

The 8 girls qualifying for state were the following: Debbie Kinkaid in the hurdles, Kris Johnson in the high jump, Mori Jimenez with the javelin, Janet Anderson with the shot put, and the 440 relay team consisting of Penny McDowell, Mori Jimenez, Myrna Bumanlag, and Tracey Brandt. Three team members were selected to the District 8 AAA all star team. They were Chuck Chamberlain, Junior Infielder, Joel Wade, Senior Pitcher, and Renny Jones, Senior Outfielder and leading team hitter. They performed at the O.C.E. basketball jamboree this year in Monmouth. The girls served as hostesses at the district gymnastics meet held here last winter.

The Saxonettes put in many hours of hard work, staying after school and practicing during the noon hour to perfect their routines. The last game before Christmas Vacation the 24 Saxonettes put on a Christmas skit. During the year ten girls acted as dance captains.

A.S.B.

The Associated Student Body Officers this year put their efforts in uniting three different student bodies into one. It was a year of building, and growth, hopefully for the years ahead. They set up many committees such as the Constitution committee, the Student Lounge committee, the Open Campus committee, and others. This enabled many students to get involved and voice their feelings.

Open Campus Committee, headed by Jan Carlin, went before the School board and received permission from the board for a trial run in Spring.

The Clypian Staff

Mrs. Lohen was the advisor for the Clypian staff.

The Sports writers for the Clypian were Terry Borton - left, and Bruce Bolton. They were also page editors for pages two and three.

Dave Hiltz, editor and regular columnist, checks assignment sheets for staff members. Dave completed two successful years as a staff writer.

Producing 14 issues this year, the South Salem Clypian has a circulation of approximately 1200, a reduction from last year.

Besides reporting on school news, the Clypian, also serves as a sounding board for students through editorials and letters to the Editor. There is no subscription charge so in order to help pay for the printing many ads must be sold for each issue.

The Editor supervised the production and news collection while a person in charge of a page is responsible for gathering news and making layout for that page. The staff has been aided this year by reporters from Journalism I class. The Clypian offers the individual experience in not just reporting but feature writing, copy editing, layout planning, and advertising sales and techniques.

Sword and Shield

This year there were thirteen members working on the Sword and Shield. Mrs. Joan Forster was the advisor. They spent the year having pictures taken of activities, sports, students and all aspects of school life. The annual is divided into sections, with students assigned to each section. They spend their third period class working on and designing all the necessary work for this annual.

In April Rena Wingert, Shirlee Parker, Lori Brubeck and Mrs. Forster went to the West Coast Division of the National Scholastic Press Association Conference in Portland, Oregon, and stayed at the Hilton Hotel. They attended workshops and looked at yearbooks from all over the United States in order to learn new ideas for yearbook style and theme. Approximately 1100 Journalism students from West Coast States, and their advisors attended.

Girls' League

Girls' League started off the year with Outreach, this committee guides new students around the school, and has continued this fall year. Due to the shifting in school districts, they had their elections.

Kim Young was a guest speaker at the September pot luck. Girls' League sponsored a magazine drive to earn money for Senior scholarships. Around Christmas time Girls' League decorated the halls and a tree in the center hall. The faculty tea was held in the South Library. In February, the Papa pie feed was held in the cafeteria. Impromptu entertainment was provided and the reaction was good. The Valogram drive was a good success and they raised money. In the last of the year, a dinner was held at the South Salem Nursing Home.

Open Campus

This year South High experimented with a trial open campus. It ran approximately one and one-half months, ending with the conclusion of the school year.

The program as a whole went very well. Only one problem had any real importance and that was one of traffic. However, Jan Carlin, a member of the Open Campus committee, reported that they were pleased with the results of their efforts.

The committee will meet during the summer to discuss open campus and to make its recommendation to the School Board. Along with this, the committee will discuss solutions to problems that may occur with the expansion of open campus to include all high schools in Salem.

Boys' League

This year, due to lack of notice and enthusiasm, Boys' League was run jointly by Mark Rogers and Gerald McCray. The prime goals of Boys' League was to try and rebuild and establish acceptance among the guys at South high, and fund raising for scholarships.

The standing Committee of Reb Deb and Boy of the Month remained this year, and Cindy Lambert was crowned Reb Deb of the year. Some of this year's activities included selling of House Ape T-shirts, a Basketball Tournament, and talk program with the lifers from the Oregon State Penitentiary.

UGN

South High students raised $635 to donate to Salem's annual United Good Neighbors drive. This year South's drive was held October 18, 19, and 20th.

Among the various activities were bake sales, computer dating, "feet" sales, cotton candy sales, car washes and a UGN jail.

The Senior's main event was a rock concert featuring U-Bic. An assembly held by the Juniors entitled "The Steady Game" was the center of their activities. The Sophomore class also held an assembly, over which an unconventional "Miss" UGN reigned.

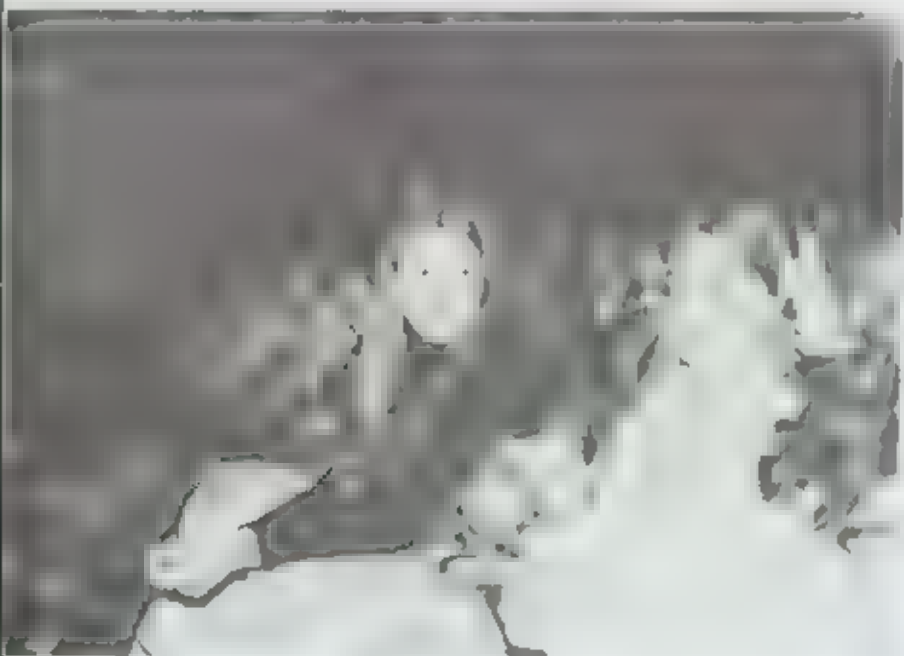

The over-all chairmen of this year's UGN drive were Cindy Lambert and Carol Chamberlain. The money that was raised will help to serve various agencies such as the YMCA, the YWCA and child care groups.

Health Occupations Cluster

Health Occupations Cluster courses are offered in two levels. In the Junior level there are two courses. One of them is Human Body structure and function. In this course students develop an understanding of the structures of the human body and their functions in relation to the body as a whole. Laboratory study involves dissection of the structures of the cat to understand the structures of man. The other course is Microbiology. This enables students to identify the important relationships between men and microorganisms. Laboratory study involved techniques in growing, culturing, and staining microorganisms for identification and observation under the microscope.

For the Senior level there is one course. The students learn basic medical principles applicable to all health fields and specific procedures to demonstrate these principles. Awareness of health relationships is emphasized; the relationship between health worker and patient and between health worker and other members of the health team

Foods Cluster

To provide students with skills to enter the business world of food service is the goal of the Food Service Career Cluster. This career cluster course was started this year at South in compliance with State Department focus on career training at the high school level.

Mrs. Cindy Johnston and her students operate the Saxon Cellar as if it were a restaurant. They cater refreshments for many school functions, prepare lunches for special groups, and as nearly as possible try to perform "on the job" tasks.

The Food Service Cluster tries to be a self supporting business in every way possible.

Students supplement in class lectures and training with field trips to restaurants of all types in the area.

Art

The Art Department involves about 300 students in both 2 and 3 dimensional art studies which are taught by Miss Betty Holmes, chairman, Shirley Hoycke and Ker E. Tolson. While no formal art club was active this year, class members exhibited their work, and projects. The December and May featured everything from posters and postcards, to jewelry making and weavings. Money from the sale of these items goes between the school and the student according to the cost of supplies.

Other art projects included posters to advertise school plays; designing a new masthead for the Clypian, the school newspaper; and painting "SAXONS" in huge letters in the gym.

Five art students had work accepted for a juried show at Oregon College of Education. Ten Students' work was judged acceptable for a student art show at Bush Art Barn. In addition, several students had work displayed in the Apple Art Gallery at Sprague High School.

DECA

The Distributive Education Club of America is the only national organization to provide students with work experience. Members of DECA attend school in the morning, including a class on distributive education; and in the afternoons they work in various businesses around Salem. This organization, for Juniors and Seniors, focuses mainly on retail selling.

Twenty eight students are enrolled in cadet teaching this year. Cadet teaching provides an opportunity for students to explore a possible career. The students work in the schools for two hours a day. Each semester the students select a different school and different grade level. Mrs. Lida Halvorsen, English Department chairman, is the supervisor for cadet teachers.

Members of the "Hello Dolly" cast gave a sneak preview of their play for AFS parents and friends during the American Field Service Assembly.

A.F.S.

AFS started in WWI as a group of volunteers who drove ambulances near battle scenes. (Hence, the name American Field Service). It was revived again in WWII to serve the same purpose. In 1947 a group of ex-drivers got together and decided that they had learned a lot about other people and countries by working with them, they decided to send a group of students overseas to live with families.

Since then the program has expanded to include over 60 countries. Students from countries all over the world come to the U.S. to live a year with an American family and attend a high school. Participating U.S. schools submit the names of 2 candidates from their school to spend either a summer or a year abroad.

Qualities needed include excellent health, a good academic background (there is no set grade point average), an age of 16-20, a good friend, personal interest in other cultures, and the ability to adapt to many situations.

AFS activities this year included: Reception for Ricky Assad in the fall, Halloween party with other AFS students invited, Christmas card sale, Pizza Party for AFS students, Adult sponsored AFS Dessert, and AFS Week in the spring.

Salem Area American Field Service exchange students gave short talks about their home countries and their American families at the AFS Assembly.

Exchange Students

Ricky Assad left his home in Johannesburg, South Africa to come to the United States — and to South Salem High. As a Senior at South, he was interested in many of our activities. Some of his involvements include the Mime Troupe and the GRASP program. Ricky was also involved in the production of the plays "Barefoot in the Park" and "Anne of a Thousand Days." When asked about his reaction to South High, Ricky said that the casualness of the people impressed him most.

Rain Didn't Dampen Homecoming Spirits

On October 27, 1972 rain poured down with the opening kick-off but many hardy souls stayed to see Maureen Hughes crowned queen of the 1972 Homecoming during halftime of the game. South's football team suffered a 20-0 loss to McNary but rally and students cheered to the end. Following the game Soulmasters provided music for the dance.

Earlier in the day students and alumni were entertained at a pep assembly by rally squads from each class. Competition yells and egg races provided hilarious moments. The senior class was named winner of the stairwell decorations contest.

Following the assembly, punch and cookies were served to returning graduates in the east balcony. Entertainment for the reception was provided by the Southernaires and South's mime troop, the Silent Mimeority.

The year's homecoming queen was Maureen Hughes and her escort was Rod Gordon.

“Anne of the Thousand Days”

The cast and crew of “Anne of the Thousand Days” showed its desire for authenticity by the energy and initiative used in doing research for the play. It showed originality and outstanding quality portrayed by the actors by their striving for perfection concerning the days of King Henry the VIII.

“Anne of the Thousand Days” was the story of King Henry the VIII and his life with Anne Boleyn. Anne said this of her life with Henry, “. . . of all the days I was his and did not love him of all the days I was his — and he had ceased to love me . . . in days — it comes to a thousand days over the years . . . strangely, just a thousand. And of that thousand-one when we were both in love.”

RIGHT: Anne of the Thousand Days is more than a play about two passionate people whose lives cross at a moment of history. For it was the product of their meeting, their daughter Elizabeth the I, which gives their existence meaning. Holly Frame plays, Elizabeth I, the greatest monarch the world has ever known.

“Hello Dolly!”

Only four nights for a musical lesson in brotherhood, love and understanding.

If only we could dream a little longer. If only we could glimpse again into “Hello Dolly.”

Uncountable hours of practice, tears over failures, ecstasy at success. Tension mounting slowly as each day passes. Suddenly there is a real audience, hundreds of eyes waiting for the first move as the curtain rises. Awe takes the audience by surprise as another successful show ends.

A lot of memories. Yes, memories of good times and bad, achievement and defeat, excitement and discouragement. Yes, those wonderful memories will stay forever, but there must be more than recalling yesterdays. What have I learned? Determination? Patience? Exhaustion? Respect?

After careful balancing of facts and emotions, after sleepless nights of tossing and turning, was the time work and dedication really worth it?

Yes, the answer echoes back from the mind, heart and soul. Yes every hour, every minute, every second

Sophomore Class

Sophomore Class money raising efforts contributed about $220.00 dollars to the class fund as a result of a rummage sale and a car wash. Tradition at South dictates that Sophomores provide flowers for baccalaureate and graduation ceremonies.

United Good Neighbors week found the Sophomores presenting an assembly featuring a series of short skits. Sophomores also participated in the U.G.N. sucker sales.

Mr. Dick Ballantyne and Mrs. Dorothy Judd are Sophomore Class Advisors.

Junior Class

The class of '74 found itself short of funds as prom time drew near in the spring. After much deliberation and consultation it was decided to hold the prom in the South High gymnasium with the Sprague Junior class as co-hosts and the Sprague Senior class as co-guests. Additional revenue was gained by charging admission to seniors as well as juniors.

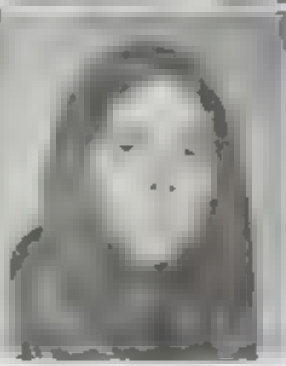

According to the class officers, car washes and raffles were the only money for the prom were the only other class related activities.

Boys and Girls of the Months

Rotarians

Rotarians are Senior boys who are honored each month by the Downtown Rotary club. These boys attend meetings each Wednesday of that month, and learn about public relations, and different types of careers

Jay Schofield was Rotarian for the months of December and January, and Rod Gordon was Rotarian for the month of October

Mike Fineran was Rotarian for the month of April and May, and Chuck Cooper was Rotarian for the month of March

Jim Perry was Rotarian for the month of November and Mark Fineran was Rotarian for the month of February

“Life Is a Balloon”

“Life was a Balloon” on May 16, when the Senior Banquet was held at Randall’s Chuck wagon. One hundred-eighty seniors and faculty members heard the announcements of many scholarships and honorary awards.

Revived at the Senior Banquet after several years absence was the presentation of humorous awards. Flirt of the Year, Most likely to be a Play Boy Bunny, and Most likely to go bald were a few. In keeping with tradition wills and testaments of class members were read.

The evening floated away lifting the Seniors higher, on their way to graduation.

The Seniors wait in line to get their food at the banquet.

Graduation

Reverend Gerald McGraw, Sr. gave the invocation and benediction to the 302 graduating seniors, their parents, relatives, and friends at the graduation ceremony on May 31.

Libby Stewart talked about having to go out and do after graduation in one of two ways. She very closely tied being. Curtis Bales gave another view of graduation. He asked each senior to consider where they would be in five years.

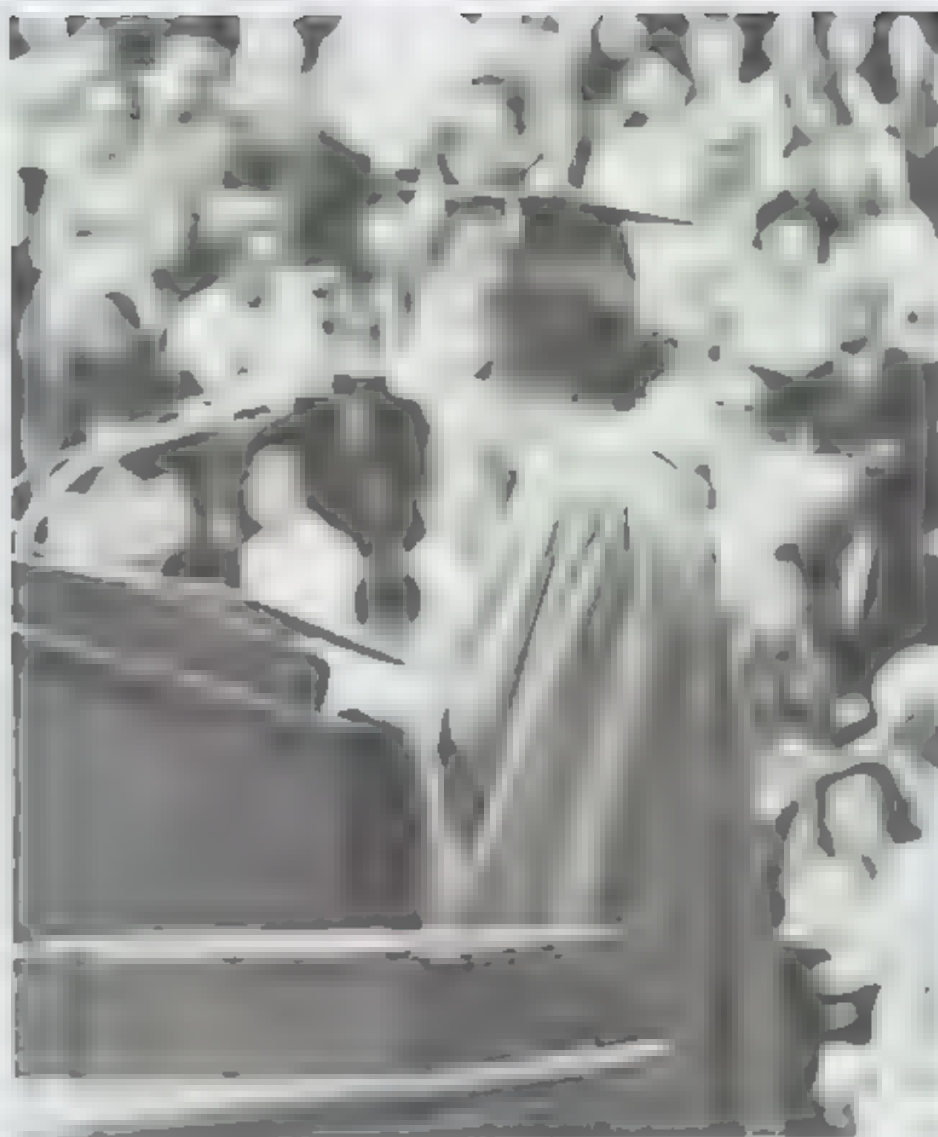

Mr. McGraw, Mr. Glen Hicks, and Mr. Pat Williams handed out the diplomas.

John Kostin received a special award for having a 4.0 grade point average all three years while at South. Dave Hiltz received an award for not missing a day of school in three years.
